GRAZY CONDUCT OF A GRADUATE

SYRACUSE, August 4.—Herbert W. Faus of Elysburg, Pa., manager of the Syracuse University crews this year, after receiving his diploma as a graduate in the civil engineering course of Lyman C. Smith College of Applied Science, today used the document to light a cigar in the office of Dean Sheppard of that college. "I will show you what I think of your institution and the diploma," said Faus, as he touched a match to it.

"Don't try that or there will be trouble," said the Dean by way of warning, and Faus replied, "If that is what you mean take off your glasses." There was a rough and tumble fight, during which Dean Sheppard called on two of his assistants for help, but it was not forthcoming.

Then Faus went to the home of Professor Paul C. Nugent and treated him likewise, Faus being incensed because he had been kept in Syracuse waiting a long time for his diploma after he had made up work on which he had failed.
